A Pragmatic Approach to Building Identity Management for the Enterprise

Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 5:30 PM

Daniel Raskin, Sr Product Line Manager, Access Management and Federation, Sun Microsystems; Pat Patterson, Principal Engineer, Identity Management, Sun Microsystems

This session explains how developers can use Sun's open source identity stack to invoke ROA/RESTful identity services that simplify the integration of Sun's IdM features with developer applications to eliminate homegrown security solutions. By using tools such as Netbeans, Eclipse or Visual Studio, developers will learn how to integrate a common identity model across enterprise infrastructure and common Web 2.0 and social networking applications regardless of the programmatic language.
